Direction: A personal reflection is an opportunity to reconsider events, thoughts and feelings from a fresh perspective. Your personal reflection can include: (1) your opinions, beliefs and experiences; (2) similarities or contrasts to your own life (i.e. experiences you can identify with); (3) how real or believable a subject / text is; (4) your emotional state at a given moment; and (5) sympathy or empathy with characters. You can support your response through: (1) examples from the text; (2) referring to specific events within a text; and (3) referring to specific quotes within a text.

My Personal Reflection:

Perseus and Medusa

Perseus conquered problems and interdependent with his mother. One day, the king in the island Perseus and his mother lived required him to get Medusa's head. If he couldn't finish this job, he couldn't come back. After that, he got the help from Hermes and Athena. However, he completed the task successfully and backed to hometown.

I think Perseus can finish this task cleverly by his talent and intelligence is admirable. Even if he is not very rich, he still give a good life to his mother. The relation between parents and children is important because there are many families ignore the affection now. Perseus was brave and struggle hard because of his mother in this story. This spirit is worth learning. We should pay more attention to the relationship between families.

We can find the story like Perseus in Chinese culture. For example : Wuson beats a tiger. A story about a man was adventurous and he beat a tiger .
